Please remember Floyd Schmoe's many humanitarian acts of peace. During World War I, he carried wounded and dying from the battlefields of France. For his volunteer work rebuilding Hiroshima after World War II, he was awarded Japan's highest civilian honor by Emperor Hirohito. Mr. Schmoe reminds us that true leadership is more than being the loudest of the group or the ability to control others. Leadership is work and concern for others.

We look forward to learning about our young people and their efforts to make a better world. Good luck!
